Dear Speaker Pelosi, House Minority Leader McCarthy, Senate Majority Leader McConnell and Senate Minority Leader Schumer:

Statement of Incarcerated and Formerly Incarcerated People Regarding the Urgent Funding Needed for Survival.

The United States is at the beginning of a pandemic, the scope of which this country has not experienced in at least 100 years, if ever. The CDC has issued urgent guidance telling people to stay home, wash their hands, keep six feet away from other people, and disinfect surfaces to keep the number of infected people from overwhelming our health care system. These warnings are not being implemented for 2.5 million incarcerated people – those locked in America’s prisons, jails, and immigration detention centers. As formerly incarcerated people, we have experienced the challenging living conditions and inadequate healthcare systems within jails and prisons. We hear every day from people still on the inside that conditions are getting worse. At Aliceville FCI in Alabama, the prison staff is complaining that they have no disinfectants or cleaning products, while the BOP spokesman announced that everyone has everything they need.<sup>1</sup> In a women’s state prison in Pennsylvania, sick people are wandering around the units with masks. At the FCC Coleman Camp in Florida, the women became ill after being exposed to the infectious Legionella bacteria, the source of which has not been found. If the coronavirus infiltrates Coleman, the 350 people there face a high risk of death. These are just a few of the many reports coming in across the country.

Our prisoner and detained migrant population is being forced to engage in highly risky behaviors: living in crowded conditions with no access to cleaning supplies, no decent medical care, no support from loved ones, and not even basic information about what is happening. The people in our prisons are part of this country. They are our grandparents, parents, children, siblings, friends, neighbors, and co-workers. Half of the people in the United States know someone who is, or has been, incarcerated. The prison population is aging, immune-compromised, and chronically ill.<sup>2</sup> Many of those detained in immigration detention centers are family units that include children and elderly folks.<sup>3</sup> Congress cannot forget them.

But most importantly, the coronavirus does not respect prison walls. Stopping all visitation, ordering lockdowns, and other measures that will make incarceration harder to endure for those on the inside, will not stop these facilities from becoming breeding grounds for illness. Prison staff, vendors, ambulance drivers, and, yes, coroners will carry the virus back to their homes and communities. Ignoring the impact of the coronavirus on prisons threatens us all.

The only way to prevent this pending disaster is for Congress to require the BOP, ICE, ORR and CBP to grant a medical furlough or compassionate release to anyone who is 1) high- risk or 2) becomes ill.

In the meantime, we ask that the following support be provided to incarcerated people and those who are ill due to incarceration:

<https://www.cbs42.com/news/health/coronavirus/coronavirus-raises-concerns-at-aliceville-federal-prison/>

- Funding for an emergency release program, including support for transportation home, living stipend, and access to health insurance;
- Funding for food stamps, food, housing vouchers, or hotel rooms for those returning home
- Funding for tests and needed medical supplies directed toward the prisons and jails;
- Funding to local hospitals and medical facilities to care for incarcerated people; Requiring this funding to be contingent upon hospitals agreeing to provide care for all individuals, regardless of legal status.
- Funding for funerals and other death-related costs for the families of those who die while incarcerated;
- Funding for community groups that will assist elderly and sick people who are released and returning home;

Lastly, as we are one community, the family members and loved ones of incarcerated people are struggling through this pandemic. Many of these households are in need of support to better understand the steps being taken to protect their incarcerated loved ones, as well as support for their own households. Many have been laid off and have no cash to purchase food and the now limited items in supermarkets necessary to feed children no longer attending school, and other necessary cleaning and daily living supplies.

The community organizations that are on the front lines working to help cash poor families survive during this difficult time also need support. We ask that support be provided to community-led organizations working to assist incarcerated people and family members of the incarcerated. These community first line organizers need cleaning supplies, canned and other food, blankets, paper goods, and temporary relief from monthly expenses such as payment of rent, electricity and office internet and phone services.

The COVID-19 pandemic has exposed deep systemic inequities. For too long, we have relied on the criminal legal system as a catch-all response to social problems, trapping our most vulnerable residents, breaking up families, and destroying lives.

In this moment of crisis, we have an opportunity to take immediate action that will protect all of us from infection in the short-term and improve our shared quality of life in the long-term. Now is the time to disinvest from the criminal legal system and invest in permanent public health infrastructure that includes healing, housing, healthcare, treatment including comprehensive harm reduction services, and community-led economic development projects as a step toward healing and justice.

Sincerely,

Formerly incarcerated individuals, families, and organizations led by formerly incarcerated people.
